Cure Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John F. Pierce, one of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW, says of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription: "It is one of the chief ingredients of the 'Favorite Prescription'."

"A remedy which invariably acts as a tonic in the system, and makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues: "In Helonias we have a medicine which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. F. F. further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Favorite Prescription):

"If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no woman can afford to be better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Helonias root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

"Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of 'Favorite Prescription,' Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says: "It is an important remedy in disorders of the month. In all cases of chronic, pain and general debility, it is useful."

"Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root: "In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

"Prof. R. Bartholomew, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal: "It is valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhea (painful menstruation)."

"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended."

OLD HOLLYWOOD

Remond, V., Feb. 4.

Located on the banks of the James river on a very high hill is an old Hollywood cemetery. It is apparently a mile square and is handsomely laid out, showing the work of a master to the art. The winding pathways on either side of which are the beautiful magnolia trees as green as cedar—were well filled with people, and anxious to pay tribute to the noble man and woman whose remains are interred in these sacred grounds. To the north is the plot selected by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Confederate Veterans and the hands of the heroes of the lost cause are resting peacefully under the shade of the trees. Those who have no headstones are marked with a marble slab and are numbered according to the company and regiment to which they belonged. One whose headstone is still prominent is a brother of August Witherell (or Calmes), as he is called in Alexandria. It will be remembered that the "Admiral" and two brothers called at the same time and called their fortunes with the Sun, but fate decreed that August was the only one to return and he has been very careful to take good care of his brother's grave in Hollywood. It is a great study of history to wander among the headstones of these noble men and boys who sacrificed their lives for the Confederate service, and a noticeable feature of it all is that at least one-third of the killed and buried in this cemetery are young men ranging in age from 10 to 22 years. On the summit of the hill overlooking the graves of the other comrades is one grave marked with the stars and bars and a headstone with the following inscription:

H. L. Wyatt
Retired
June 10, 1861

On one corner of the stone is "The First," on another is "O. A. First N. C. Vols." on the third is "Confederate," and on the last is "Killed in Battle". One would judge that it was the first soldier killed in that memorable conflict. As the eye beholds the neatness of this section of Hollywood one is convinced that loving hands are kept busy caring for the Confederates' resting place and they still nurse and cherish the memories of the noble ones who sacrificed their lives and whose lips are now silent in death. On another headstone is marked the following inscription:

Capt. C. F. Pardigon
U. S. A.
Honorable discharge
An exile from France
A gallant soldier
A resident of Virginia
Died Nov. 2, 1891.
Erected by loving friends.

A walk to the southern end of the lovely cemetery brings to view the tomb of President John Tyler, and far back on the brink of the hill overlooking the rugged cliffs on both sides of the James river is a lovely spot where the late President of the Confederacy and his family—Jefferson Davis, Mrs. Davis and daughter Winnie. The authorities in charge of the cemetery are courteous and affable gentlemen willing and ready to explain and even to escort a stranger to any part of the grounds he may seek or to give desired information. If one visits this historic city he would be neglecting a golden opportunity to fail to see the beauties of nature as revealed in dear Old Hollywood.

FALL OF METEORITES.

According to reports from Florence, Italy, a rain of meteorites fell there about a Thursday night, especially at Vaglia and San Pietro. The stones were of the size and shape of hazelnuts. When they reached the ground they were red hot, and the crops were ruined. At midnight a comet with a long tail of unusual brilliancy was visible. The meteorites were gathered by hand-fans yesterday by the peasants. They fear disasters are portended, and consequently they are crowding the churches to invoke help from heaven.

Something, supposed to have been a meteor, struck near Quincy, Ill., at 1:30 yesterday morning, aroused the whole city, and caused buildings to tremble. Those about the streets saw a great glare in the sky. Several said they saw the meteor explode, followed a few seconds later by a trembling of the earth, which lasted for ten seconds.

Professor McIlhenny, professor of astronomy at DePue University, said that details of the Quincy explosion tended to confirm his theory that this meteor and the one recently reported from Connecticut are fragments of a body detached from Comet A when it passed through the solar system and have been traveling toward the earth ever since. Comet A's balance of gravity probably became disturbed as it came close to the rival pull of gravity from the various bodies in the solar system, and it began to disintegrate, according to Father McIlhenny's theory. This caused the splitting and diminishing of the tail, noted by various astronomers, and several fragments got into the sphere of the earth's attraction.

PACKING FOR EXPORT.

A pamphlet on "Packing for Export" has recently been issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor, at Bureau of Manufacturers, Major John M. Carson, chief.

While this pamphlet deals mainly with export trade the necessity for the same careful attention to the preparation and packing of shipments of local or domestic business ought not to be lost sight of. Shippers of all kinds of traffic, particularly that of a fragile character, are fast realizing that their property must be packed sufficiently strong to insure safe carriage to and delivery at destination and are introducing reforms in their packing methods which is having the effect of putting their goods into the hands of their customers in better condition.

This matter is one in which shippers and carrier are alike vitally interested.
